

USG Great Basics

hosted by

Leadership and Institutional Development

About Great Basics

Great Basics is a virtual workshop series offered to USG institutional employees as a way for individuals to learn and build leadership-related skills through interactive sessions. These sessions focus on a variety of professional development topics and will allow attendees to immediately implement the skills they learn in their workplace. Sessions are designed to be relevant and applicable whether you are leading yourself or leading teams.

January 2025 | Cultivating a Leadership Mindset

Wed., January 29, 2025

9:00 AM - 10:00 AM

Microsoft Teams

Register Here

Questions? Email
USOTHRIVES@usg.edu

Leadership is not a job title but rather a way of being, and it begins with self-leadership. Whether you hold a formal leadership position or lead informally, this professional development session is for you! Participants will learn how to improve their skills and abilities in self-leadership and adopt a leadership mindset. This session will cover essential practices to enhance communication, confidence, and emotional intelligence, enabling individuals to better handle challenges and motivate themselves and others.

